

Mike Abram

Chief Information Officer

Michael (Mike) Abram serves as the Chief Information Officer (CIO) of Westinghouse Electric Company, leading the organization's global technology strategy, digital transformation initiatives and enterprise IT operations. With a focus on innovation, cyber security and scalability, Mike drives efforts to align technology investments with business objectives, enabling growth and operational excellence.

Mike brings nearly 30 years of experience within IT leadership to this position. Previously, he was the Business Unit CIO for Arconic Engineered Structures (AES) business, which focused on the Aerospace and Defense markets. During his tenure at AES, Mike led the integration of the RTI International Metals acquisition and developed the overall IT strategy for the division, along with running IT operations.

He holds both a bachelor's in information technology and an MBA in e-commerce from Duquesne University.